What about the racial makeup? Sorry about the sudden question but I want to try and get a better picture.

Doug: hmmm... I guess it depends. The younger kids are a lot more uh, diverse, than the rest of the people I usually see here but even the rest, they tend to be a good mix id say, definitely more towards the white side if I had to say one specifically

F:

Thanks, ok, do you think college plays a big factor in that difference you noted before?

Doug:

in the races?

F:

Yes.

Doug:

Of course, you have a new batch of students coming in every year, everyone else who is here lives here, so they aren't going to change too much. Even if one year is more similar than different, you still see more difference in the young kids than the older folks.
